Title of Lesson or Activity: Children and Great Depression Created by: Kim Beckstrom Date: March 2, 2010 Notes: My book was Marissa Moss' book titled Rose's Journal. It is written using primary documents. I would use these images to ask children to examine them and think about what the children in the images are thinking while I read them the book. I would also ask them what observations and predictions they can make about the images as they examine them and what questions they wish they could ask.
